

Inspired Words – In Conclusion

Over the past weeks, I have shared with you some words that hopefully gave you pause to think. And, to reflect on things in your life that these words may apply to.

- ♥ Are you reconciled with God?
- ♥ Do you accept that Jesus recompensed us for our sins?
- ♥ Have you practiced discernment in your life?
- ♥ Is your heart diligently seeking these things?

All these words present huge challenges in the world where words like “collusion”, “treason”, “obstruction”, and “fake news” permeate all aspects of media. Like white light filtering through a prism, we are fractured and separated into many hues, being labeled for every opinion we express like Crayola Crayons.

How others see us does not dictate who we are. What is in our hearts is what defines us. Our hearts are what God sees.

But the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart. 1 Samuel 16:7

Keeping these words in our hearts is what provides us the faith to carry on. Carry on through tragedy, death, persecution, hatred, and every definition of adversity.

We all stumble and stagger in our navigation of life. Our human GPS systems need to be recharged and updated. Could you imagine never recharging or updating your phone? It would be a miracle! Well, our hearts and souls and minds are always plugged in to the eternal generator. Our source for constant recharging and updating is our personal connection to our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ.

Words, both spoken and unspoken, from our first to our last, all are part of who we are. The best we can do is to keep love in our hearts so that our words are tempered.
